MILITARY RETRENCHMENT.

The Paris correspondent of the Times gives currency to statements derived from various sources, including private remarks made by the King of Denmark, showing that Austria, Russia, Germany, and Italy, are favourably disposed to the adoption of a joint policy of military retrenchment, to which, it is believed, France would not object.

ACCORDING to the Yokohama Gazette the Shinjiri (or Shinjiri) colliery at Korat-gum, Fukuoka, colliery, caught fire on the 15th inst. Of the 750 colliers who were at the time in the mine, 15 were burnt to death. Though the shaft was closed, the fire still burnt, and water was pumped into it. The cause of the fire was not known.

A SAN FRANCISCO contemporary states that in the drawing-room of the residence of Mrs. U. S. Grant at Coronado Beach, San Diego, the other week, John S. Mosby, of the Confederate guerrilla battalion fame, once Consul for the United States at Hongkong, and Robert T. Lincoln, son of President Lincoln, were guests at the same time. The meeting was informal and proved very pleasant.

THE Siam Observer says that the First Yot trial will shortly be succeeded by one of a different nature—the investigation into the circumstances attending the arrest, by the Siamese, of Ban Bhen, in 1891. It may be remembered that Ban Bhen held an official position near Luang Prabang, under French authority, and was arrested by the Siamese, who contended that the territory belonged to Siam. He was released last year, and returned to the French.

It will be remembered, says our Shanghai morning contemporary, that some nine years ago a robbery of £10,000 in gold bars took place on board the Fungshun under peculiar circumstances. No trace whatever could be got at the time of the thief or thieves, but recently suspicion was fixed on a Chinaman in Nippon, where he has been living since the robbery. He bought land and built houses on it inside the native city, and has now been recognized as the thief of the Fungshun, and he was arrested the other day on suspicion of being the person who stole the gold bars.

AT 9.45 this morning a fire, resulting in damage estimated at $5,000, broke out on the ground floor of No. 17, Lower Lascar Row, a clothes dealer's store, and before the Fire Brigade obtained mastery over the flames the house in which the blaze originated was completely gutted, as well as the upper portion of the adjoining house, No. 19. As usual the cause of the fire is unknown, but as the premises were uninsured to suspicion of arson attaches to the tenants.

SAVE THE Peking and Tientsin Times—A recent telegram from Canton states that the Hon. John W. Foster, Secretary of State under the Harlan Administration, is expected at Tientsin, on or about the 23rd instant, en route for Peking. It is understood that orders have gone forth from the Taung-Yamen that he is to be received with great distinction throughout China. Mr. Foster has had an enviable career as a diplomat, having been successively Minister to Mexico, Russia, and Spain. He resigned his position as Secretary of State shortly before the Democrats came into power, to assume charge of the Boston Sea Commission for the United States, that met in Paris last spring. Since the settlement of the Fur Seal dispute by arbitration he has been making a tour of the world with his family and wife, Mr. Sheridan P. Reed, United States Consul at Tientsin, is, we believe, closely related to Mr. Foster.

WHAT form the future government of Brazil may take it is, of course, impossible to say at the present juncture. We have heard that the revolution is at an end, and we are taking it as a fact that the terms of the settlement now under consideration are that Marshal Pinheiro and Admiral de Mello come out of the struggle scathless or a head short; or whether the conflict terminated in an ignominious compromise. If, however, the Brazilians, tired of ignominious compromise, should elect to return to imperialism, there is a promising young Prince at their disposal in Dom Pedro d'Alcantara, son of the Comte de Eu, the only child of the late Emperor Dom Pedro. It was asserted at one time that the object of Admiral de Mello's intervention was the restoration of the Dom Pedro dynasty, which is likely enough. The young Prince is eighteen, and is calmly pursuing his studies at the Military Academy in Vienna. In ignorance, it was said, of the use which political rumour was making of his name. He is said to show great aptitude as a linguist, a useful accomplishment for an Emperor. Except that he has a separate bedroom, and the assistance of a special tutor, he is on the same footing as his fellow students.

At the Magistrate's this morning Mr. Hastings continued the hearing of the charge brought by Constable Graham against L. Alfrey, licensee of the Sing Hotel, Mr. J. Carruthers, a marine engineer, and W. Goulbourne, who were in the lower bar on the night of the 7th instant when it was alleged liquor was sold and drunk after prohibited hours, gave evidence to the effect that no one but boarders were served with liquor at the time stated by the police, no money was taken and that as a matter of fact the "blue jacket" in the bar had engaged rooms for the night and was therefore not a boarder. It was further stated that no application for liquor was served after hours, and that Mr. Alfrey refused admittance to the police on the ground that at the time when Graham demanded admittance it was too late to open the house. Notwithstanding that evidence and the fact that one of the two witnesses for the prosecution, Constable Caraglio, stated he saw silver money passed over the counter, while Constable Graham positively he saw paper money, tendered in payment for the drinks alleged to have been served after hours, his Worship found defendant guilty and fined him $50 for "allowing intoxicating liquor to be sold and drunk on his premises after prohibited hours," and $25 for "unlawfully refusing admittance to the police on the morning of the 8th instant contrary to Ordinance 11 of 1889." His Worship then immediately proceeded to hear evidence in the charge preferred against Mr. Alfrey by Sergeant George Phelps, No. 1, for "allowing intoxicating liquor to be sold and drunk on his premises after prohibited hours." It will be remembered that the police had been called out to the Sing Hotel on the 7th instant to see that the defendant did not sell liquor after prohibited hours, but there was not a single drop of liquor having been drunk there after hours. Mr. Alfrey, who appeared for the defence, demanded an acquittal at this juncture on the ground that the charges of the prosecution were not substantiated, but his Worship overruled him and proceeded to take the evidence of Constable Graham, who corroborated his superior officer's allegations. Mr. S. W. Schmidt was then examined for the defence and asked that liquor had been either sold or given to the police after prohibited hours. His Worship then asked the further meaning of the case and sentenced the defendant.

THE Shanghai native paper Shen-pao states that it has received news from Seoul to the effect that a conspiracy of some twenty-seven persons, belonging to the Min clan—the family now in power—has been exposed and the men arrested, before their plans could be matured and brought into execution. The design was to set fire to the railways on the 1st day of the Chinese New Year (5th February) and during the confusion that would arise, the conspirators were to kill the King of Corea and proclaim one of their own clan King in his stead.

We understand that Mr. W. M. B. Arthur, first clerk at the Magistracy, will shortly take a trip to England (in twelve months leave of absence), and that Mr. J. W. Jones, assistant master at the Central School, will act as his locum tenens. Mr. Arthur has worked hard for many years in a trying position and has fairly earned a lengthy holiday, but what has become of Governor Robinson's grand scheme, brought forth with such a flourish of trumpets, of filling all vacant clerkships in the Government Service with Portuguese? Collapsed, of course, like a great many more of his Excellency's foolish notions, as the Telegraph at the time confidently predicted would be the case.

THE WATER SUPPLY.

For some time past considerable inconvenience has been caused throughout the colony owing to a scarcity of water, and matters reached a climax last Friday, when not a drop of water for domestic purposes was obtainable in many parts of the city. This state of things continued until this morning, when, in some districts at least, a very limited supply was turned on. After the notification issued by the Colonial Secretary that a full supply of water would be available from 6 to 10 a.m. on and after the 24th inst. the public had a right to expect the fulfilment of that promise, but as above stated, such has not been the case. From Monday morning, owing to there being only 15 feet of fairly clear water left in the deepest part of the greatly vaulted Tiam reservoir, the outflow to the colony has been limited to two and a half inches above what is known as the six-foot gauge! As might be expected, the greatest inconvenience has been caused by this sudden though perhaps necessary action on the part of the Water Authority, and hundreds of taxpayers, chiefly those who live west of Pottinger Street, are having to pay ten cents for every two buckets of water, delivered by coolies at their residences, and they have been doing so for the past four days.

A number of complaints having reached this office relative to the astounding action of the authorities in cutting off the supply of water to hundreds of residents, a representative of the Telegraph visited Tiam on Easter Monday to see what the state of affairs at the late lamented Mr. Price's "white elephant" might be. And it is well he did so, for now we know the state of things, unless there is a copious rainfall within the current week the supply from Tiam will absolutely cease eight days hence. It would appear that instead of making the reservoir as large as it could have been made, the talented constructor failed to cut off several slots, which let out from the hill-sides and partially fill up the area of the basin, and as a consequence Tiam holds only about two-thirds of the water which the massive dam could well contain with its walls. It would not be difficult to widen and deepen the reservoir during the dry season, but so far nothing has been done in this direction. There is a fine stream of spring water, flowing virtually an inexhaustible supply (about three hundred feet below and bearing south-east from the foreman's residence at Tiam) which supplies itself near Stanley, and which might without great trouble be utilised by pumping or other means. Seeing that we cannot look forward with any degree of confidence to heavy rains for a month or so to come, the outlook for the general public, and especially for the Chinese, is anything but encouraging, and all we can do at the present juncture is appeal to the authorities to make a clean breast of the state of affairs, so that, whatever the situation, the public may comprehend it thoroughly and prepare for the inevitable. What we emphatically denounce is a make-believe of a certain daily supply of water when, for some occult reason, there is next to no supply at all.

MACAO NOTES.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

MACAO, March 26th, 1894.
Tenders for the exclusive right to import and export kerosene oil having been received by the Exchequer, the highest offer, $8,100 per annum, made by the late salt farmer, was accepted. As the monopoly seriously affects the re-exportation of this article through Macao to the neighbourhood, the Government, in pursuing a policy conducive to its own benefit, is also blocking the way against whatever prospects may yet exist for renewing the commercial prosperity of this Colony.

This year's Lenten services were not up to a "old custom." Macao is getting poorer, so that everything was on a considerably more limited scale than in former times.
Quite a large number of friends and other residents assembled at the principal landing place on Saturday last to receive our new Governor, Major Horton e Costa. The amount of fire-crackers fired off by the Chinese showed that his Excellency has not been forgotten and is also greatly liked by that section of the Macao community. As the Governor is comparatively young and noted for his energy, it is confidently expected that he will work as hard here as he did as our deputado in Lisbon on behalf of the colony he is now governing.

Home papers bring the news that the Chief Justice of Macao, Dr. Marques d'Oliveira, has been made a councillor.

H.B.M. SUPREME COURT.

(Before N. J. HANSON, Esq., Chief Justice.)

Shanghai, March 19th.

BANK OF CHINA, JAPAN AND THE STRAITS, LD., v. S. BRYAN.

This was a suit to enforce the payment of calls on 30 shares in the Bank of China, Japan, and the Straits, Ltd., of which the defendant was the registered holder. Mr. J. C. Hanson (of the firm of Messrs. Dowdall and Hanson) conducted the case for the plaintiff, and the defendant appeared in person.

The defendant admitted his liability, but said he was at present unable to meet the call.

His Lordship gave judgment for the plaintiff, with costs—N. J. Daily News.

JOHN GILPIN UP TO DATE.

The London Lyric Company, on returning to Hongkong (it is stated) will perform a new comic opera entitled "John Gilpin up to Date," the title role to be filled by the Amateur Champion Libel of the Daily Press. Our esteemed contemporary has several tame lunatics in stock, but the one who attempts to write sporting and dramatic notes is the cake-scooper. Here is a specimen:—

"Upsilonon" was a citizen
Of very small renown;
For he was one of Granny's men,
As it is an awful clown.
He used to write the "Sporting Notes"
(So-called) for the Daily Press.
Though we've known lots of billy-goats
That would have bugled less.
But if there ever was a kid
Who could do more to vex
His readers than "Upsilonon" did,
It only could be "X."

For nobody could tell which one
Of them was worse than 'other.
To all appearance, "Upsilonon"
Must have been "X's" brother.

(Before we've any further gone
Here is a point to smile on:—
The man himself says "Up Ceylon,"
When he ought to say "Upsilonon.")
But as above remarked, these two
Were awful asses, truly;
Who they were really no one knew
Unless the Office Coolie.

They both wrote for the Daily Press;
They wrote a fearful lot.
What it all meant, no one could guess,
It was such tommy rot.

However, it is not their screeds
That caused this present verse;
'Tis not about their words, but deeds,
Which were a great deal worse.

For 'tis a funny story, how
One of them took a ride—
Or rather, tried it on; but now
He's sorry that he tried it!

"His X," as we remarked before,
Was not of much renown
In Hongkong city, any more
Than in his native town.

But he's just had an escapade
Deserving to be told
As widely as the one that made
John Gilpin famed of old.
Now X's spouse said to her dear,
"Though wedded we have been
These forty weary years, yet we
No holiday have seen."

"To-morrow let us get two mokes
And go to Pok-tung-tung."
It would delight the country-folks,
"We'd make creation hum!"

Then X replied "I do admire
Of women kind but one,
And on are she, my dearest dear,
Therefore it shall be done."

"I am a famous sporting man,
As all the world doth know,
So Mr. Davy Kennedy
"Will lend us mokes to go."

The ponies came, on Easter Day,
Though X was loath to ride,
Too much along a public way
For fear he should be grieved.

With all their fixings à la mode,
Brand-new, and spick-and-span,
They started on the Bonham Road,
Right over Lap-sap-wan.

But finding soon the path sloped down
Beneath his well-shod feet,
Poor X's pony calloped hard,
Which galled him in his seat.

So "Fair and softly!" X cried out,
But it was all in vain,
The pace increased at every shout
In spite of curb and rein.

So stopping down, as needs he must,
Who cannot sit upright,
He grabbed the mane with both his hands
And yelled with all his might.

The pony never in that sort
Had handled been before;
What thing upon his back had got?
He wondered more and more.
